WHEN THE DOGS DIED

Doctor Edward Vincent Drew a Sledge in the Peary Arctic Expedition.

MANY THRILLING EXPERIENCES.

Several Times He Gave Up Hope of Again Seeing His Friends in America.

Dr. Edward Vincent awakened a variety of emotions in the members of his audience with his lecture on the arctic at Conkey's opera house last night. The doctor was a member of a successful arctic expedition and was retained by the ladies of the Episcopal mission to narrate concerning his experiences in the land of perpetual winter. His story was tinged with pathos, with humor, was instructive and intensely interesting from the beginning to its conclusion and no audience was ever better entertained. There were upwards of 200 admissions sold.

The lecturer was introduced by Rector Woodruff. He was surgeon general and ethnologist in the Peary expedition which sailed in the year 1892 from New York in the staunch old steamship Falcon which afterwards went to the bottom while enroute from St. Johns to Philadelphia. The crew comprised 17 members, and upon leaving the New York harbor coasted along Labrador in search of dogs for drafting power in the exploring expeditions in the ice regions. Seventy-five canines were taken on board and the ship then steamed off for Greenland.

A Beautiful Country. "The first glimpse of Greenland was magnificent," said the lecturer. "Its rough, jagged coast dotted with Esquimaux huts, its lofty glaciers which glimmered in the sun's rays with the effect of the scintillation of a million diamonds, charmed us. We were piloted into the harbor by four Esquimaux whom we compensated with four biscuits apiece while the expense of entering New York harbor is over $100. I asked one of the natives whether there was much ice and this was his reply, 'No, no; yes, plenty of ice nowhere.' The mahobi of the village was a school teacher who understood scarce 20 words of English and received the princely annual salary of $18.25. The richest Esquimaux in Greenland has a bank account of $500 and is reported to own nearly the whole of his native land. The natives do their own printing, have a currency system and carry on a limited commerce with the Danish government. They are great hunters and their exports are mostly furs. The young ladies of this Greenlandic natives are pretty and have learned the art of dancing, one of them having taught me to two-step, which was not in vogue in my country when I left."

Are a Happy Race. The Greenlanders know no unhappy hours. They are a contented people except in cases where they have degenerated by mixture with other races. At Cape York the expedition landed and the Falcon, which had been chartered for the voyage, started on her return trip with orders to return to Greenland the next season. It was with moist eyes that the members of the Peary party watched the boat depart. They were not assured that she would ever reach civilization again and their fate was uncertain. A house of ice, 35x14 feet, with glass roof was constructed and in this 14 people had their habitation.

Night Overtakes Them.

The long night of 112 days was closing in and the party necessarily deferred explorations until it was past. It was a jolly holiday. The time was spent in hunting. Twenty-seven walrus were slain for the dogs and their capture was exciting, the doctor and his companions on one occasion finding their boat surrounded by a herd of more than 40 of these brutes. It was the doctor's hideous yelling that saved the lives of himself and comrades, the walrus being wary of unusual sounds. One day a giant tidal wave swept down the bay washing the 40 barrels of coal oil, brought by the party for fuel, and a house of ice, 35x14 feet, with glass roof was constructed and in this 14 people had their habitation.

The native thinks more of his dog than the American does of his horse. They will not drive them more than two days without a rest. Five and six of the canines are driven in a team, the leader, or king dog, exhibiting an intelligence almost human. He earns his position by subduing every other dog on the team and will not permit any looting. The north Greenland native is jolly and goodnatured. He averages five feet and three inches in height and weighs 130 pounds. He is free and unrestrained, having no form of government, and never lies or steals. There are 3,000 words in his language and his wife, so the lecturer believes, gave to the world the idea of bloomers, these, much abbreviated, being her native costume. They keep no dogs, and if they have a national history it is not accessible. The doctor amused the audience with the description of ten hours' sleep on a bed 7x7 feet in which there were ten natives and himself. The marriage ceremony is simple. There are no courtships, no love-making, no wooing. The young man selects his wife and she must live with him. He spends two or three days with the proposed mother-in-law, demonstrates to his father-in-law his skill at hunting and there ends the romance. The natives realize the superiority of the Americans and are very reticent in their company. They believe that when one of their number dies he or she becomes a star in the heavens, and as they have lived so shall they shine. Explorations Begin.

At the close of the long night preparations for the first exploring expedition began. Seven men including the doctor started out on sledges. Before proceeding far one of the party froze his feet and was sent back to the headquarters a few miles further on a man supposed to be the strongest in the party succumbed to the cold. They had been out several days when, while resting in their tents after a fatiguing journey of 10 hours, a terrible snow storm swooped down upon them and when the doctor awoke he found himself unable to move a muscle, the snow having packed so tightly around him. The chamber through which the sled was conveyed to him was fast filling up with the drifting snow and he gave up hope of ever seeing his friends again. His companion near him was in the same condition. They could hear Peary and his companions in an adjoining tent preparing for breakfast but no sound they could make would reach them. For three days, without tasting food or water, the doctor and his companion remained in their snow prison, then by almost superhuman efforts they dislodged themselves, but the danger was not over. Although the Peary tent was scarcely 10 feet away they risked their lives in trying to reach it in the blinding storm. They could not see it and if they missed it by a hair's breadth they would be lost. The hope of being successful was all that was left them and the dash was made. The doctor plunged forward. He struck the tent in the middle and groped about until he reached it in the blinding storm. He was covered over a gey rope and he, too, was saved.

Acts As Motive Power. It was decided that the doctor and the half frozen companion should return to headquarters. Two of the dogs had frozen and the remaining ones were half famished and almost useless. They drew the doctor and his friend several miles and then became exhausted from hunger. The doctor divided his food with the dogs and traveled a few miles further when the canines died and the doctor took their places, drawing the sledge with his companion and baggage upon it. Not at all certain that they were traveling in the right direction the doctor proceeded on. They came in sight of a land mark which hope had almost fled and reached the house in safety. Aid was sent to the remaining members of the expedition and this was the first and last attempt made by Peary to explore the interior, the party returning home a few months later.

MONEY IS ALL SPENT.

And Benton Harbor is Denied Another Mail Carrier.

Postmaster Edgar Nichols has received information from the postoffice department that owing to the depleted condition of the appropriation for free delivery it will be impossible to grant the request of Benton Harbor for another carrier at the present time.

This will be a disappointment to a large number of residents of some of the best portions of the city.

O. E. FIFIELD.

He Was Elected a Member of the Board of Education.

The members of the board of education held a meeting in the office of the Excelsior garage company last evening for the purpose mainly of considering the resignation of C. B. Winslow whose resignation was necessary on account of preparations he is making to leave the city.

His resignation was accepted and O. E. Fifield was elected to serve the unexpired term and assume the duties of secretary in which capacity Mr. Winslow acted. The secretary's books were turned over to Mr. Fifield last evening.

Mr. Winslow has served as a member of the board of education for several terms and has been deeply interested in the educational work of the city. He will be greatly missed by the board.

Mr. Fifield, his successor, enters upon his duties with a thorough understanding of their nature having been a member ex-officio of the board when he held the office of mayor.

The new board is composed as follows: John E. Barnes, S. M. White, J. S. Morton, M. M. Jennings, O. E. Fifield and R. M. Jones.

Will Be Repeated in St. Joseph.

Dr. Vincent will repeat his lecture on Arctic exploration in the Congregational church of St. Joseph this evening.

MARIE, daughter of Ervin and Lucy Phillips of Pipestone township died today at 8 o'clock, aged three weeks and six days. The funeral will be held in Mount Pleasant church Sunday at 10 a. m.

Fred Klefth has moved his barber shop to corner Territorial and Water streets and wishes his customers to call on him.

A GREAT OPPOSITION.

It Has Been Encountered by the St. Joseph Valley Railway Company.

EVERYBODY IS FIGHTING THEM.

Treated More Like Thieves Than Men Who Are Endeavoring to be Honorable.

Director Bennett, of the St. Joseph Valley railway company, takes exception to an article appearing in 'The News' contemporary last night charging that the above company had not procured the necessary permit from the government to build its contemplated bridge across the St. Joseph river; that the river was a navigable stream and no impediment to navigation could be placed in or across its channel.

"The statements contained in the article, so far as they refer to us, are untrue and do us an injustice," said Mr. Bennett. "Further than that they will undoubtedly have the effect of causing an expensive delay in our building operations. We have complied with all the requirements that the government has exacted. When the construction of the bridge was first talked of we laid the matter before Secretary Lamont and insisted in knowing what the governmental requirements were. A document with the various stipulations made was forwarded to the company to be filled in. This was done and returned to the secretary of war and the papers indicating its receipt by him are now in our possession."

"We have complied in full with all the regulations prescribed by the government. We have been granted unqualified permission to build a bridge across the St. Joseph river and we do not feel uneasy over the probability of this permission being withdrawn, but, if as intimated by the local newspaper in question, an investigating committee is to be sent here by the government, we realize that our work will be delayed and that we will suffer inconvenience."

"The company has not been used fairly by this community," continued Mr. Bennett. "We have already paid out $30,000 there, all of which was turned into the channels of trade, and in return for this we have received little else than curses. We are treated with about the same consideration that a thief enjoys. We are regarded with suspicion and our relations with the residents are strained and unpleasant."

"We are howled at, cursed at and I marvel that none of our officers have been stricken down with brick-bats, so intense seems the feeling against us. We have endeavored to be fair and use only honorable means in the negotiations incident to our work, and the treatment accorded us is consequently felt the keener. We have shown no disposition to rob, but at every turn we are confronted with situations traceable to the condition of a lack of confidence."

"Never perhaps was a railroad built against greater opposition than has been encountered in the construction of the St. Joseph Valley."

WEDDING RECEPTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Koob Gave One Last Night.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Koob gave a charming wedding reception in their new home, 316 Pipestone street, yesterday afternoon and evening.

About 75 invitations were issued for the event and nearly that many guests were entertained. The house was tastefully decorated with sunnys and carnations and also the dining room and tables where dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. Houghton, assisted by Misses Lena Koob and Lizzie Henson.

The guests were received at the door by Miss May Hopkins and were introduced to Mr. and Mrs. Koob by Miss Edie Miller.

Many pretty and valuable presents were left as tokens of the high esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Koob are held here. The presents consisted of china, cut glass, linen and silver.

BROWN IN LINE.

He Wants to Sell You Your Christmas Supplies.

C. J. Brown the popular grocer on East Main street perhaps made more friends last Thanksgiving than any other man in town. He did it by knocking the prices down on everything which went to make a good dinner and thereby gave every one who traded with him a chance to enjoy one.

He is determined that every body shall have a merry Christmas and in order to accomplish his object he has decided to reduce the prices on things in keeping with the season.

Tomorrow, Saturday Dec. 12 he will offer you your choice of those beautiful pictures shown in the window with every pound of Forest City baking powder. He will also offer you:

Two lbs choice honey.....25c
Two lbs Mixed Nuts.....25c
Two lbs Layer Eggs.....25c
Four lbs Mixed Candy.....25c
Cups, saucers, colander dishes and a host of other goods which will make acceptable holiday presents.

WILL LOSE C. B. WINSLOW.

A Prominent Citizen Will Soon Leave for Minneapolis.

C. B. Winslow has resigned his position as assistant cashier of the Farmers and Merchants bank to take effect January 1. Mr. Winslow will leave on that date for Minneapolis where he will take a position with the wholesale cigar firm of Wincke & Doerr, with whom he was with nine years before coming to this city. Mr. Winslow's family will follow him to Minneapolis in the spring.

Mr. Winslow is a popular citizen and there will be many regrets over his departure. At present he is a member and also secretary of the board of education, and is also secretary of the board of trade. He is alive and enterprising and on both of these boards his services will be greatly missed.

It is probable that his place in the bank will be filled by Edwin Edmunds, a present employee of the bank and a hard working young man.

SENTENCED TO IONIA.

The Fate of Two Notorious Burglars.

Bert Sweeney, convicted of burglary, was sentenced by Judge Coolidge this forenoon to three years at Ionia. Frank Ledger, also convicted of burglary, was sentenced to two years at Ionia.

Leonard Hayes, convicted of assault, received a sentence of 60 days in the county jail.

The circuit court adjourned at noon today and will convene again next Monday morning.

Hayes Finds Guilty.

Leonard C. Hayes was arraigned early in the October term of the circuit court on a charge of committing an assault to do great bodily harm upon the person of Charles S. Davis, the crime occurring at Buchanan early this fall. Hayes pleaded guilty and H. W. Davis was appointed by the court as defender for the defendant. Yesterday Hayes changed his plea to guilty on the condition that information would be amended as to charge him only with simple assault.

LIST OF CIRCUIT COURT JURORS

Who Will Sit in the Cases to be Heard in January.

Following is the list of jurors for the January term of the circuit court:

Tatro, Chikaming; Charles Vinton, Galien; Byron Walker, Niles; Howard Young, Niles.

AN AWFUL CHARGE.

County Clerk Needham Makes It Against a Local Paper.

Benton Harbor Palladium: County Clerk-elect John Needham, had a narrow escape last night from never taking the oath of office Jan. 1. Mr. Needham was in Treasurer Treat's office at the court house where a portion of electric lighting apparatus is exposed. The boys have been used to heating coils on one portion of it and Mr. Needham tried the same thing. He made a mistake and touched two ends of it, making a connection. He thought some one had hit him in the neck for a minute and then he had a funny feeling all over and when he came to his senses he realized what had happened. Not only did he know something had occurred but the engineer hustled over from the jail to ascertain the cause of the bolt slipping and the fire flying from the machines. John says it was all accidental and he will say that it does not occur again.

Buchanan Independent: John was here over Sunday visiting his parents. He says the above is a newspaper fake, that it is fiction, founded on a very little fact.

Probate Court.

Estate of Belle M. Thresher, deceased, petition filed by George E. Kline for the probate of the will of the said deceased, and for the appointment of him, the said George E. Kline, executor of said estate. Hearing January 4 at 10 a. m.

Charles V. Mattman was adjudged to be mentally incompetent to have charge of his person or property and Major Willis C. Hanson was appointed guardian of the same.

Estate of John Morron, deceased, W. L. George, B. M. Stearns and John Robinson appointed commissioners to partition the estate of said deceased.

GEMS FROM PINGREE.

The Next Governor of Michigan Partially Outlines His Policy.

STILL PROMISES 2-CENT FARE.

He Also Expects to Make Railroad Companies Pay City and More State Taxes.

Among many other things Mr. Pingree has given out the following as his program in the governor's office:

"I'm going to see to it that the people of Michigan get a 2 cent railroad fare. That will be one number on my program. I've said in my speeches that I stood for 2 cent fares on railroads and what I said I meant."

"High freights are an injustice to them (the farmers). Competition would do the work—if we had competition; but we haven't. When only one road runs through a given territory its freight charges are fixed at the point where they think they can bleed the people most without the people kicking over the traces."

"Do you know any legitimate reason why the poor laboring man should pay city, county and state taxes while the big railroad corporations pay no city taxes and gets off almost scot free from state taxes?"

"I want to see some measure that will clip the wings of the trusts and monopolies in this state. One such measure should be a law prohibiting stock watering and overcapitalization."

"I shall do my best to make Vanderbilt pay as much taxes as plain people pay or I shall make trouble."

"What I desire is a law that would be of benefit to the railroads as well as other people and prevent the wreck toward which bad management is surely leading the road. For monopoly ends in wreck sooner or later."

ARTISTS AND THEIR WORK.

Interested the Art League at Their Meeting Last Night.

The Art league held a profitable meeting last evening at the residence of Mrs. Travis, St. Joseph. Some particularly able papers pertaining to artists and their work were read.

The roll call was responded to with brief references to current events in art. An intelligently prepared paper by Mrs. Harry Gentle on "The Effect of American Taste on Foreign Pattern" was read by Mrs. Antislade.

Mrs. Travis favored the company with a beautiful vocal solo, and Miss Lina George read an instructive paper on "Impressionism in Art."

The life of Rosa Bonheur was briefly portrayed by Mrs. O. B. Hipp and the program closed with a paper on "The Need of Education in Art," by Mrs. F. B. Gilson.

POLITICS BARRED OUT.

The State Grange Will Not Allow Its Discussion.

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 11.—The report of the executive committee of the Michigan State Grange, which is the platform of the order, was submitted to that body Wednesday night. The financial question having become the bone of contention in partisan politics, the committee decided that in the future it would be unwise to discuss it in the meetings of a nonpartisan organization.

A plan of furnishing the members of the fraternity with fire insurance was partially formulated, and will be submitted to the insurance commissioner. It was stated that there are too many employees receiving too large salaries in the capital, and the legislature was asked to practice a more economy in dealing with the state institutions.

Failing in line with the Farmers' Club Association the legislature is asked not to create any new state institutions or to appropriate more than one-sixth of a mill tax for the support of the state university. The election of members of the state board of agriculture and the election of state senators by popular vote is demanded.

Tomorrow and Monday they will hold a special dress goods sale and will sell 45 to 65 cent goods for 29 cents.

A Great Explosion.

Will take place soon in Benton Harbor, an explosion of admiration caused by the untiring work of the Universalist ladies resulting in their placing on sale the most beautiful lot of fancy work ever before offered at their annual Rainbown bazar to be held in Conkey's hall December 15 and 16, day and night.

Any person, however hungry, with an appetite as great as the sink hole will have that appetite appeased, not by fifteen hundred bales of shavings but by solid enduring food for fifteen cents a try. The program each evening will be worthy the occasion and as its beauty baffles honest description nothing remains but that the public should see for itself. We have heard of a few people who are not going to the bazar this year, they would if they could, but they can't. We will explain next time why. But you are going for you said so, and so have others.

Alfred the Great.

According to the most reliable English historians, Alfred the Great, in 872, was the first English sovereign to wear a crown. From early inscriptions and historical records it appears that the Saxon kings before the time of Alfred were simply a band of pearls around the head as a mark of royal power.

The morning glory has long been regarded as an emblem of coquetry. One floral dictionary declares that this symbolism is derived from the extremely transient nature of the flowers. They bloom about sunrise and in two or three hours have perished.

A Great Explosion.

Will take place soon in Benton Harbor, an explosion of admiration caused by the untiring work of the Universalist ladies resulting in their placing on sale the most beautiful lot of fancy work ever before offered at their annual Rainbown bazar to be held in Conkey's hall December 15 and 16, day and night.

Any person, however hungry, with an appetite as great as the sink hole will have that appetite appeased, not by fifteen hundred bales of shavings but by solid enduring food for fifteen cents a try. The program each evening will be worthy the occasion and as its beauty baffles honest description nothing remains but that the public should see for itself. We have heard of a few people who are not going to the bazar this year, they would if they could, but they can't. We will explain next time why. But you are going for you said so, and so have others.

Alfred the Great.

According to the most reliable English historians, Alfred the Great, in 872, was the first English sovereign to wear a crown. From early inscriptions and historical records it appears that the Saxon kings before the time of Alfred were simply a band of pearls around the head as a mark of royal power.

The morning glory has long been regarded as an emblem of coquetry. One floral dictionary declares that this symbolism is derived from the extremely transient nature of the flowers. They bloom about sunrise and in two or three hours have perished.

Little Alpha is sleeping in a bed of flowers. And our hearts are left in deepest sorrow for we miss the morning, noon and night. And we pray in vain that you might live for we miss the morning, noon and night. Fair as a lily, too frail for this world. You are now happy in heaven. Good bye, darling Alpha, love! Love, farewell.

The funeral services were presided by Rev. J. H. Bicknell from the text, "But now he is dead, wherefore should I fast? Can I bring him back again? I shall go to him but he shall not return to me."

ABOUT THE COUNTY.

Berrien Springs Era.

The patrons of the Berrien Springs creamery will receive 24 cents per pound for their butter this week which nets them 20 cents per pound for their butter fat.

Last week's work shows an increase of patronage and shows that the farmers are seeing the advantage of the separator system. Many of the patrons are in the market for more cows.

Eau Claire Has a Fast Trotter.

The fast trotting gelding owned by Henry Rogers of Eau Claire, is in all respects a superior animal; is absolutely sound, and a horse of fine finish. He is perfectly gaited and has the best of knee and stiffl action and requires neither weights nor boots. He is the strongest moving horse I ever rode behind, and every movement leads me to feel that he will develop into a horse of wonderful speed. Last fall he demonstrated his ability to trot round the entire field of thirteen horses in three straight heats, on a kite-shaped track.

OYSTER SALE.

J. S. LaPoint, the Meat Dealer, Will Hold It.

J. S. LaPoint, corner Pipestone and Britain, will hold a special sale on oysters tomorrow. He will sell the finest goods in the market for 25 cents a quart.

THE CROP REPORT.

Farmers Selling Their Wheat More Freely Than Last Year.

LANSING, Dec. 11.—The Michigan crop report for December 1 has just been issued. It says that the average condition of wheat December 1 was 91 per cent of condition in average years.

This is nine per cent above condition December 1, 1895. The average condition in the southern counties is 89; central, 93, and northern, 98. One year ago the conditions in these sections respectively was 78, 86 and 95.

The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers since the November report was published is 1,286,500, and in the four months, August, September, October and November, 4,995,674. This is 577,063 bushels more than reported marketed in the same months last year. The amount reported marketed in November this year is 1,012,000 bushels more than reported for November, 1895.

Pull pasture has been good and live stock is in the condition.

The mean temperature of the state for November was 35.6 degrees, or 0.6 degrees above the normal. There was an excess of 2.5 degrees in the southern counties, of 1.5 degrees in the central, and 0.7 degrees in the northern.

The average precipitation, including both rain and melted snow, in the state was 3.47 inches; in the southern counties, 2.44 inches; in the central, 2.88 inches, and in the northern, 4.53 inches. Compared with an average or normal this is an excess of 0.56 inches in the state, of 0.25 inches in the central, of 1.82 inches in the northern counties, and 2.84 inches in the upper peninsula, and a deficiency of 0.66 inches in the southern counties.
